

Bengt Pehrson became known as Bengt Peterson. He settled on a 7 acre farm in Lake Creek beside a small spring of good water 1 mile above (east) of the John Creek red sandstone quarry to the south of the road.

He then sold out to "Jimmie Scottie" Dawson who raised sheep in the area.

Scottie Dawson sold his ranch or sheep to Albert Smith & Maud Thomas

Albert Smith became one of the leading sheep raising men in Wasatch Co.

His son Joseph Albert Smith who mtd Ruth Turner followed in his father's footsteps
